What wonderful shots.

This past weekend, opportunities to photograph and go to seminars, workshops were abundant. This editor, along with about 6 others in our clubs, attended the JPI conference. Clay Blackmore led the workshops, and I was very impressed with how much was accomplished in two days. He is a very enthusiastic, passionate photographer who willingly shared his knowledge with us. He showed us posing, lighting tips, creative use of props. I know that I walked away feeling that I'd really gained a lot. The folks at JPI do a great job of putting events together. Models were not only plentiful, but really great looking kids who worked hard.
